Complexity. Increasing
connectedness. Uncertainty.
Rapid change. What capacities will your leaders need in a less predictable future?

Context Consulting partners with clients who know they need a different kind of leadership than they've relied on in the past.

We engage your people's intelligence and commitment to create an inquiring, collaborative, and adaptive leadership culture.

Our customized designs build the capacities you need to respond to your emerging future.

Transforming culture

“Individual leaders are more confident, strategic thinkers who are able to challenge assumptions; the management team has stronger relationships and a richer pool of actionable cross-enterprise knowledge. The result has been an ability to influence the organization and achieve desired change.”

Andrew Wnek Senior Vice President & CIO, Canadian Tire Corporation Ltd.

“Context delivered highly successful strategies and programs. They brought innovation and deep, relevant subject matter expertise. I am impressed with their dedication to continuously evolving their own base of knowledge, and feel that we were the beneficiaries of this development. The programs that Context introduced have had a lasting positive impact. I strongly endorse their work.”

Laura Sousa Vice President, Canadian Tire Corporation Ltd.

Developing globally-focused leadership

“Context delivered superlative results. Their clear focus on tangible outcomes benefit both the business and the individual in a complex matrix organization, marking them out as a first class partner.”

Ira Morris Senior Director, Genzyme Europe BV

“You were able to quickly assess my challenges and help me think about them differently as well as provide me with additional tools or ways to approach them. I am very grateful.”

Hassane Cisse Deputy General Counsel, Legal Vice Presidency, The World Bank

“Genuine, caring, and most of all challenging – you have a great ability to gently pull the real issues front and centre to get folks to engage in that awkward space.”

Ken Overly Director, Global Business Group, Fujitsu

Developing globally-focused leadership

“Mary Stacey quickly understood my role in a complex global organization. She provided strategic advisement and coaching that enabled me to make significant shifts. Her ability to create a non-judgemental dialogue that builds personal and strategic awareness in the midst of rapid change makes her a valuable coach to executive leaders and their organizations.

Country Lead, Global Biotech Company

Context Action Learning gives us a sense of 'team' among peers with leadership responsibility, the opportunity to increase cross-enterprise awareness, and an opportunity for people with responsibility to talk in a safe context about work-related issues that really matter.”

Director, Canadian Retail Organization

“Context Action Learning develops leadership in every sense of the word. I widened my perspective, developed my conversation skills, and the capacity to lead change. I became more passionate, courageous, and confident. I brought what I learned back to my team, which helped them grow.

Associate Vice President, Canadian Technology Company

Setting direction

“Context stimulated thinking and helped us organize diverse ideas into a coherent expression of who we are, of our strengths, and where we should be going. As a result of their guidance, we have a better understanding of our long-term priorities

Andrew Schell Executive Director, Toronto City Mission

“I’ve seen Mary Stacey work as a business consultant leading an organization on a major change in strategic direction, as well as coach in the launch of an executive mentoring program. She was outstanding on both projects. A highly committed professional, a wonderful advisor to everyone on the project team, and she constantly delivered, with first-class.

Deb McKenzie President, American Marketing Association (GTA)

"Mary Stacey provided exceptional facilitation of the first day of our strategic planning efforts. She provided a wealth of knowledge on leadership and organizations and the sure hand of a talented and experienced facilitator."

Doug Reeve PhD PEng. Director, Institute for Leadership Education in Engineering, Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering and Senior Fellow, Massey College, University of Toronto

Engaging multi-stakeholder collaboration

“Context’s master facilitators bridged Inuit, government, and scientific views. They supported progress through multiple phases. The outcome was expanded participation in decision making and a foundation for future collaboration. A year later many things are happening that Context’s work mobilized.”

Jamie Snook Executive Director, Torngat Wildlife Secretariat

A consortium of the Japanese, Canadian, and German Space Agencies engaged us to design and facilitate the International On-Orbit Summit for 80 participants from 12 countries. In his closing address Japanese Aerospace Exploration Agency (JAXA) Astronaut, Dr. K. Wakata, stated that the event had been “like no conference I’ve attended—no one was sleeping!”

I have been fortunate to be a part of Context’s facilitation of a diverse group of business leaders. They have a light touch and a powerful impact.

Carla Kearns President, The Mandarin School
